Thanksgiving is one of the favorite times of year in New York City. It's the kickoff to a beautiful and amazing holiday season and a wonderful holiday. It's also the time of year when one of New York's greatest public events takes place – the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade.

And yet, there is so much else that you can enjoy on this Thanksgiving Weekend in the Big Apple! Shopping in New York City on Black Friday is a unique experience, not counting the great deals to be had. And then, there's Broadway shows, Radio City Christmas Spectacular, The Nutcracker Ballet at Lincoln Center, the Winter Village at Bryant Park, and let's not forget Rockefeller Center. Here you can ice skate, enjoy Christmas lights and get a glimpse of the Christmas tree, while not let lit, still a sight to see.

Did we mention our hale, The Sheraton New York Times Square! Talk about location, step out the front door, turn one way and there's Times Square and Broadway, turn the other and it's a short walk to Central Park, the 5th Ave. shops and Rockefeller Center. The Macy's Day Parade route is just up the street. SO ONO!

HAPPY THANKSGIVING!

The 93rd Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade will once again kick off the holiday season, beginning at 9:00am from 77th Street and Central park West. You will be able to view the parade close by from our hotel on 7th Avenue. For the best curb side seats, an early arrival is necessary as folks do get ready by 6ish.

Unfortunately, there are no general public seating parade tickets available. The reserved seating is restricted to Macy's executives, corporate sponsors, politicians, charitable organizations, etc.

The parade, presented by Macy's Department Store began in 1924, making it the second-oldest Thanksgiving parade in the United States, behind America's Thanksgiving Parade in Detroit. From the extravagant floats to the humongous balloons to the intricate performances and beyond, the parade has something for everyone -- no matter your age.

After the parade, what to do? While some stores close, many are open and an opportunity to pick up some great deals before Black Friday.
