The garden combines both Japanese and European style architecture amid splendid lush greenness. At times, you will feel like a Japanese emperor on vacation at a lovely summer resort, while at other moments, a European noble taking a walk in the garden!

The Kushiro Marchland was designated as a national park in 1987 to preserve the country's largest wetland and marsh habitat which supports the only known population of the endangered Japanese cranes. The photo gallery displays about 80 pieces of artwork and allows you to enjoy viewing the beauty of Biei in all seasons. Unfortunately, you are not allowed to take photographs inside the gallery.

Besides the cheese factory, there is also an ice cream parlor and a pizzeria. While here, enjoy a hands-on ice cream making experience. Best yet, is that you get to eat the fruits of your labor.

Our next stop is at Blue Pond, getting its name from the unnaturally bright blue hue of its water. With tree stumps protruding from the surface of the water, the Blue Pond has an ethereal and enchanting appearance.

The blue color of the pond has not been fully explained but is attributed to the presence of aluminum hydroxide in the water that reflects the shorter wavelength blue light the same way the earth's atmosphere does. The color of the pond also changes depending on what angle you look at it from and even at different times of the day. Although the water appears blue when viewed from the land, the color is not found in the water itself.

Lunch time, at a local restaurant.

This afternoon we will be driving along the scenic northwest area of the Biei, "Patchwork Road", so named for the appearance of its fields.

Over the years, the area's beauty has attracted the attention of marketing professionals, and some trees were used in commercials or for package label designs. Among these famous trees are a row of larch trees on the Mild Seven Hill (from a cigarette commercial), a poplar named Ken and Mary Tree (from a car commercial) and the Seven Star Tree (which appeared on cigarette packages). A group of oak trees is known as the Parents and Child Tree.

Other sites of interest in the Patchwork Road area are the Hokusei Hill Observatory, a pyramid structure that offers nice views over the fields of Biei and the Zerebu Hill, a flower park.

You will be astonished by the magnificent views of colorful flowers such as lavenders, sunflowers, poppies, cosmoses, and purple salvias, blooming just like beautiful patchworks. You can walk through these flowers at some locations. One of the best viewpoints is where you can see poplars and oaks standing imposingly on a vast green field.

From here, we are off to Asahikawa, Hokkaido's second largest city. A city of water, Asahikawa sits on the confluences of the Ishikari, Biei, Chubetsu and Ushibetsu rivers. The complex includes a sake museum, a beautiful Japanese garden filled with flowers from May to September, a garden-side shaded rest area as well as a tasting room and gift shop.

The museum covers all facets of Otokoyama's rich sake brewing heritage, including ancient sake-related literature and art. In fact, one of Japan's most famous Ukiyoe painters, Utamaro, portrayed Otokoyama sake in a few of his works, forever affording Otokoyama a place in both the sake brewing and art histories of Japan.

The production of Otokoyama sake is said to have started 340 years ago in the Edo Period (1603-1867) at Itami in western Japan. It grew popular in Edo, and sake with the name "Otokoyama" was eventually produced nationwide. The sake produced in Asahikawa follows the tradition preserved since the Itami years

The tasting room and gift shop allows you to sample some of the most famous sake in the world, as well as the opportunity to purchase magnificent sake sets, and cups amongst others.

Now, off to a fruit picking experience at a local farm, followed by a stop at the Sunagawa Highway Oasis, where you can enjoy shopping and tasting local specialties. This is a good spot for omiyage shopping. Please enjoy lunch on your own at the food court or sit-down restaurant.

The shops and cafeteria are operated by major manufacturers from this region. It is possible to find many of Hokkaido's specialties here including melons, boxes of potatoes, whole crabs, famous stuffed squid from Hakodate, Royce chocolates and other Hokkaido chocolate confections.

You will also find a wide variety of Japanese sweets and a vast assortment of packaged food items. As well other souvenirs items, such as T-shirts and wooden animals, notably owls and bears: Owls and bears were and remain very special animals for the local Ainu people.

A fun stop, bustling and full of energy!

Now off to Sapporo, the capital of Hokkaido and Japan's fifth largest city. Sapporo was once synonymous with winter, thanks to its annual snow festival, its famed snow crab and the white powder that reliably blankets the surrounding mountains. But much has changed since the city hosted the 1972 Winter Olympics. It now offers a variety of shops, galleries, and exciting new restaurants as well as green urban parks and an outdoorsy spirit.

Along the way, a stop at Okurayama Ski Jump Stadium. Constructed in 1931, the stadium was featured in the 1972 Winter Olympics, when it was home to the 90m ski jump competition. It is still used for ski jump competitions throughout the year.

A five-minute ride on the ski lift brings you to the top of the mountain, during which time you can catch a glimpse of what it's like to be a ski jumper. The viewing lounge at the far top of the mountain comes steadily closer, and the steeply sloping approach stretches out along one side. Seeing the takeoff point at such a close distance will surely give you a taste of what it's like to ski jump, as well as what it feels like to be an athlete.

Looking back once you have reached the top of the lift, you can enjoy panoramic views of the city of Sapporo. This refreshing experience will probably make you wish that the climb would last forever!

Now off to our hotel for our last two nights on tour, Century Royal Hotel Sapporo, ideally situated, adjacent to the shopping zone in front of JR Sapporo Station, and directly connected via an underground passage. Our arrival will be by 5:15pm and after checking in, a free afternoon and evening.

After breakfast, please meet your guide in the lobby by 9:00am as we are off on a full last day on tour. Our luggage will be sent separately by truck and meet up with us later on arrival at the Chitose Airport.

The morning begins with a visit to Shiroi Koibito Park, a theme park by Ishiya, a local chocolate company. The company's flagship product is the Shiroi Koibito cookie, which consists of two thin butter cookies and a layer of white chocolate in between. It is one of the most famous souvenirs from Hokkaido.

You will be able to observe the candy production process as well as purchasing some souvenir treats to bring home.

The outside theme park offers many photo opportunities and the flower gardens change with the season. At the appointed time, look up at the tower clock for a musical show.

Shiroi Koibito Park

From here, a short drive to Otaru, a romantic port town steeped in a rich history that dates to its glory days as a major herring center. Otaru was the terminal station for Hokkaidō's first railroad, and today nostalgic warehouses and buildings still line the picturesque canal district.

Our first stop is at the Tanaka Sake Brewery, the most famous local sake brewery in Otaru. Their building built in 1905 during the Meiji Era is designated as a historical architecture. After a short factory tour enjoy tasting 10 brands sake.

Otaru has over the last 100 years developed and prospered as "the sea entrance of Hokkaido" and gained the nickname "Wall Street of the North." The glassworks shops, coffee shops, restaurants and shopping malls along the canal have been converted from stone-built or brick-built warehouses, which were used for storage in the days when commerce flourished, and the canal was crowded with jostling barges. When night falls, oil lamps on the cobbled streets are lit, and the town evokes a gentle, nostalgic mood.

The city is renowned for its glassworks, music boxes, and sweet shops that can be found lining Sakaimachi Street. As you near the end of Sakaimachi Street, look and listen when you come to the vintage steam clock at the front of the charming Music Box Museum. The nostalgic atmosphere inside the main building of the museum takes you back in time. The museum houses almost 15,000 music boxes, ranging from matchbox sized souvenirs to precisely tuned masterpieces. The Music Box Museum has something for everybody, from The Beatles to the latest J-pop hits.

Another must, the Kitaichi Glass Shop where you can enjoy looking and shopping for beautiful glassware. Where they once made a lot of glass buoys and lamps for fishery, now the focus is on products to attract visitors.

For some sweet times we will visit another famous landmark, the Kitakaro confectionary shop. The cake and confectionery store is a popular stop for tourists and locals alike. There is a cult like following of its famous honeyed wheeled layered cakes and there are good reasons why. The layered cakes are delicate and the honey flavored intense, but not too sweet. Sit and enjoy at the small café right in the store. Coffee, tea and ice cream are also available.

Enjoy lunch at one of many restaurants just steps away. Otaru is well known for its beer, and Otaru Beer, next to the canal, is a popular restaurant with a medieval Germanic theme. If sushi is more to your liking, a stroll down to Sushi-dori Street is well worth your time. You will find a collection of some 20 sushi restaurants.

Otaru

From here, we begin the drive to the Chitose Airport. Once there, please claim your bags from the buses and we will begin the check-in process.

Hawaiian Airlines #442 Departs Chitose 7:45 pm – Arrive Honolulu 8:20 am
